New Jersey Peace Action

Ordinary people working together for a more peaceful world

Introducing Peace Action

Peace Action, founded in 1957, is the nation's largest peace organization.

New Jersey Peace Action, based in Bloomfield, was a founding chapter and has always been among the nation's most active. Several local groups throughout northern NJ are affiliated with NJ Peace Action.

There are more than 35 Peace Action state affiliates across America. Peace Action has a national office which lobbies for legislation in Washington, DC. This means that we have the advantage of both local grass roots action and a strong national presence.

Both locally and nationally, members and elected boards decide Peace Action's policies democratically. Our members reflect a broad cross-section of people from all walks of life.

Think globally:

- Fight terrorism through international law and cooperation, rather than illegal invasions
- Eliminate nuclear weapons through negotiated treaties
- Redirect excessive military spending to support schools, seniors, health care, jobs and veterans
- End U.S. arms sales to human rights abusing nations
- Oppose civil liberties restrictions in laws such as the USA Patriot Act
- Promote peaceful resolution to conflict at all levels
- End wars of aggression

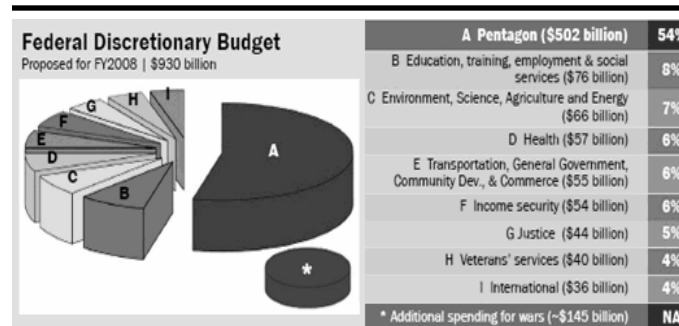

Join the New Jersey Peace movement

Act locally:

NJ Peace Action:

- Spearheads NJ participation in national marches and in thousands of anti-war actions in our state since 9/11/01
- Educates about war and peace at local community events such as parades, street fairs and town hall meetings
- Sends dozens of packed buses to Washington, DC to protest war and work for peace
- Holds annual commemorations of the 1945 atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki
- Hosts noted progressive speakers at luncheons, dinners and meetings
- Lobbies state and federal political leaders to support practical, positive alternatives for peace
